BRITISH SAY AXIS FORCE BEATEN AT EL ALAMEIN TO REFUTE ITALO CLAIM CITADEL IS CAPTURED

54 Million Surplus Is Reviewed

Governor Sets Up Big Fund for State and Offers Ready-Made Campaign Issue

Cites Economies

Lehman Points at Big Savings, Economies in Operating Costs

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—A ready-made campaign issue in the form of a $54,127,419 state surplus was set up by Democratic Governor Lehman today for the as yet unidentified party nominee to succeed him in the governorship.

Nearly two months before the party nominating conventions, Lehman reported an operating surplus of $54,127,419 for the fiscal year which ended Tuesday night. This adds to a $7,029,256 surplus carried over from last year to give the state its highest cash reserve since 1931, in contrast to the $100,000,000 deficit which Lehman inherited with the governorship from Franklin D. Roosevelt 10 years ago.

The unexpectedly high surplus, $39,000,000 higher than estimated by the governor, is certain to make state financing a major campaign issue in view of the "economy" claims on which Republicans will peg much of their gubernatorial drive.

Republican leaders contend the state's sound financial condition is due primarily to the G.O.P. legislature's reduction of Lehman's budgets the last four years.

In issuing his last accounting of state finances, the governor declared the $54,000,000 surplus was achieved despite elimination of the one per cent emergency tax and 25 per cent reduction of the normal levy on personal incomes, both of which he proposed. He estimated the savings to taxpayers thereby at more than $45,000,000.

Lehman said "very substantial savings and economies in state operating costs," as well as increased revenues, were responsible for the surplus.

The governor, who left a banking career for public life in 1928, injected a touch of finality when newspapermen asked him if he would recommend any particular use of the surplus.

With a head-shaking negative, he smiled and said: "That is for the next legislature and the next governor. The money is in the treasury."

His formal statements, however, urged that the state "husband" its financial resources because gasoline and tire rationing and other ramifications of the war effort place "many uncertainties on the horizon."

The operating surplus of $47,098,163 resulted from tax receipts of $241,265,940 and expenditures of $374,167,777. Revenue was $30,173,937 above what Lehman termed his "deliberately conservative" budget estimates, while spending was $8,487,113 below predictions.

The four-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax produced $61,652,822, more than $4,000,000 above estimates, and motor vehicle fees were more than $2,000,000 over the $35,000,000 forecast. Lehman warned, however, that the impact of rationing on both levies, which he predicted would drop $6,000,000 by June 30, 1943, is only beginning to be felt.

Other taxes performing above estimates included those on personal incomes, franchises, unincorporated business, cigarettes, alcoholic beverages and pari-mutuel betting.

Wicks Appoints Lutz

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—A Princeton University economics professor, Dr. Harley L. Lutz, will direct the research staff of the New York state economy commission.

Dr. Lutz, a past president of the National Tax Association and national authority on taxation, was appointed yesterday by Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston, Republican chairman of the commission. The commission was created by the 1942 Legislature to investigate all phases of state expenditures.

Churchill Wins Confidence; Hopes for Egyptian Victory

Prime Minister Gets Vote of 475 to 25, Says Big Reinforcements Are Rushed to Auchinleck

London, July 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill won an overwhelming vote of confidence, 475 to 25, from the house of commons today after he had gravely assessed the allied position in the Mediterranean and middle east war zones as a near-disaster with a hope of victory pinned on "very considerable" reinforcements now in progress.

The parliamentary victory came at the end of a speech one hour and 28 minutes long in which Churchill staunchly defended his direction of the war as the best possible under the circumstances.

Churchill sketched a dark picture of the battle of Egypt. He said it had developed "a recession of our hopes and prospects in the middle east and Mediterranean unequalled since the fall of France."

To this he added, without elaboration, a statement that "at any moment we may receive news of grave importance."

The 475 to 25 vote left 115 of the House's 615 members unaccounted for.

Of the 415 some members undoubtedly expressed partial disapproval of the Churchill government by abstaining from the vote but many could not attend the session because of wartime duties and other causes.

Churchill's somber portrayal of the war in Africa was relieved only by his statement that "very considerable" reinforcements have reached or "are approaching" the battlefield.

This major strengthening of the battered British Eighth Army, at the Axis path to the Nile delta, Alexandria and Suez, was the basis of Churchill's statement that "I do not consider the struggle in any way as decided."

This appraisal of the allied position in Africa and the middle east, evoked by two days of debate in the House of Commons on Churchill's conduct of the war, was given in a speech which also touched upon the prime minister's recent consultations with President Roosevelt.

He said the conversations were concerned "only with movement of troops, ships and aircraft and measures to be taken to combat losses at sea and more than replace sunken tonnage."

The United States Army Air Force has been in action for some days in the North African struggle while United States service and survey units have been engaged on behalf of the allies behind the battle lines.

"Almost everything arranged was secret," Churchill added of his talks with the President, and "there was never a more earnest desire between allies to engage the enemy."

In the closing passages of his historic reply, just before Commons began voting on a motion to censure his government for its direction of the war, Churchill said: "I have stuck hard to my blood, toil, sweat and tears, to which I have added muddles and mismanagement."

The war, in Churchill's opinion, is likely to be a long one and, moreover, he said, there is no reason to suppose that hostilities will (Continued on Page Two)

Blackout Laws Go in Effect

Major General Haskell Gives Rules On Lighting and Movements of All Motorized Equipment

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Statewide blackout regulations became effective in New York today, officially promulgated by Major General William N. Haskell under authority given him by the war emergency act.

The state director of civilian protection announced these rules in the control of lighting: "Blackouts become effective upon the sounding of the public alarm signals, such as sirens, aerial bombs, air whistles, church bells and factory whistles."

Primary lights shall be extinguished or screened against visibility from the air.

All premises, private, public or business, used after dark will mask all windows, skylights and doors or extinguish all lights during blackouts to prevent visibility of interior lights.

All unattached lights, including exterior building lights, illuminated advertisements and signs, street lamps and traffic control signals, must be extinguished or arranged for extinguishment by readily accessible exterior switches.

All vehicles except those permitted to move under regulations dated June 17, 1942, will pull to the curb, or off the highway, street or road, park and extinguish lights.

Articles Seized F. B. I. Acts at Altoona

Altoona, Pa., July 2 (AP)—Twenty-five Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, assisted by local and state motor police, seized a quantity of contraband articles last night in "spot searches" at the homes of 225 enemy aliens in this important rail center on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The federal agents, saying the searches were routine, declined to connect them with the disclosure by F.B.I. Chief J. Edgar Hoover Saturday that eight German saboteurs caught in this country had planned to destroy the Pennsylvania line along Horseshoe Curve, among other objectives.

Chinese Wage Big Air Raid on Japs

Military Targets on Yangtze Are Attacked; Kai-Shek in Critical Spot

(By The Associated Press)

China's fledgling air force, pressing its first offensive in five years of war against Japan, was credited today with a big-scale assault on Japanese military targets along the Yangtze river, while Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's army coped with an increasingly grave situation on the east China seaboard.

Dispatches from Chungking, the war-time capital, said large formations of Chinese bombers pounded the enemy at Hankow and Yochow, in North Hunan Province. All the raiders returned safely.

Hankow has served as a main base for Japanese air raids on Chungking.

On the fighting front, a Chinese army spokesman again denied a Tokyo claim that Japanese invasion columns had seized the entire 450-mile Chekiang-Kiangsi railway.

The spokesman said a 35-mile (Continued on Page 12)

Roosevelt Picks Seven Generals To Try Saboteurs

Death Penalty for 8 Men Landed From U-Boats Might Be Asked by Government

Washington, July 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt created today a military commission of seven army generals to try eight persons accused of landing in Florida and New York to try to commit sabotage.

The commission was set up by means of a presidential military order, and it will begin its deliberations in Washington July 8.

An accompanying proclamation denied the accused men access to civil courts.

The prosecution is to be conducted by the attorney general and the judge advocate general, the military order said, and two colonels, Cassius M. Dowell and Kenneth Royall, will be counsel for the defense.

Mr. Roosevelt provided that the record of the trial, including any judgment or sentence, should be transmitted directly to him for his action.

The death penalty is expected to be sought by the government.

The generals appointed to the military tribunal are Major General Frank B. McCoy, who will preside; Walter S. Grant, Brigadier General Guy V. Henry, John T. Lewis, and John T. Kennedy.

The saboteurs were seized by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which said they had landed from enemy submarines with equipment for sabotaging key military installations and war plants.

The military order said that the commission would try the eight defendants "for offenses against the law of war and the articles of war."

The accused are Ernest Peter Burger, George John Dasch, Herbert Haupt, Henry Harm Heineck, Edward John Kerling, Hermann Otto Neubauer, Richard Quirin, and Werner Thiel.

The commission was empowered to make its own rules for the conduct of the proceedings, as provided for under the articles of war, so as to insure a "full and fair trial."

Concurrence of at least two-thirds of the members present will be necessary for any conviction or sentence.

The proclamation denying any appeal to civil courts did not mention the eight defendants specifically, but will apply, rather, to all persons who have entered this country since the outbreak of the war "for the purpose of committing hostile acts against the government."

Brooklyn Woman Goes Free as 'Mercy Slayer'

Riverhead, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—A Brooklyn housewife was acquitted yesterday in the "mercy slaying" of her insane brother on the ground that she herself was insane at the time of the killing.

A Suffolk county court jury deliberated an hour and 10 minutes to find Mrs. Clara Reichert, 29, innocent "by reason of legal insanity."

Judge L. Barron Hill will decide today whether she should go free or be committed to a mental institution.

His decision rested on whether Mrs. Reichert has recovered the sanity she contended she lost temporarily last December 3 when she shot her brother, George Horne, 26, four times with a sawed-off rifle she had smuggled into Kings Park State Hospital, where he was a patient.

The shooting, which occurred in a visiting room under the eyes of Mrs. Reichert's mother, Mrs. Edith Horne, was motivated, the defendant explained, by her desire to end his unhappiness.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 2 (AP)—The position of the Treasury June 30: Receipts $50,006,989.77. Expenditures $27,935,342.90. Net balance $22,071,646.87. Working balance included $2,228,717,993.37. Customs receipts for month $27,622,231.81. Receipts fiscal year (July 1) $12,799,061,621.02. Expenditures fiscal year $32,491,307,397.69. Excess of expenditures $19,692,245,766.67. Total debt $76,990,704,746.50. Increase over previous day $327,734,338.06. Gold assets $22,736,503,160.69.

Sevastopol Falls, Berlin Claims

Berlin hailed the fall of Sevastopol (1), though Moscow reported a "hand to hand" struggle continuing for possession of the city. The capture of Sevastopol would remove any rear threat to a Nazi push across the Kerch Strait into Caucasus oil fields (lower broken arrow). Such a drive would tie third baseman. The Sox won both ends of the double goal with a thrust from the Kharkov sector (2).

U. S. Naval Base At Londonderry Is Convoy Protection

Official Declaration Says Base Is Vast Project, Ready to Service All Naval Vessels

U. S. Naval Base, Londonderry, Northern Ireland, July 2 (AP)—Here in far Northern Ireland, at the European end of the allies' bridge of ships, this great new naval base has sprung into being in a year's time to guard the precious cargoes bound across the North Atlantic for Britain and Russia.

Its existence was announced publicly for the first time today although it was commissioned last February 5 and, according to Commodore Ross Stewart, commander of the adjoining British base, "already has lifted a great burden of the convoy problem."

Where hundreds of United States Marines and Bluejackets operate machine shops, supply bases, drydocks and other naval spreading establishments in a plant spreading over hundreds of acres, only a year ago 3,000 Irish and American workers were starting construction.

It was built with lend-lease funds and Capt. William Larson of Chicago said "everything in the base down to the last pork chop or nut and bolt has been brought from the United States."

Details of its intricate mechanism, of course, still are a war secret but it could repair or rebuild the biggest United States destroyer. It has millions of dollars worth of precision machinery ready, if necessary, to operate around the clock in blacked-out buildings.

It is designed to keep fit destroyers and other light craft on Atlantic convoy duty for the United States and Canadian navies. It is a separate unit but, on occasion, works jointly with the nearby British yard.

Its men are housed in de luxe "quonset huts" prefabricated at home and put together here and its sick and injured are tended in a 200-bed quonset hospital which has its own X-ray apparatus, pharmacy, operating rooms and staff of specialists. British as well as American sailors are its patients.

From secret chart rooms in the base, an operations force under Capt. Lee Hewlett Thebaud of New York directs scores of American convoy craft operating on the North Atlantic.

The minesweeper U.S.S. Albattross, an old, converted Gloucester fisherman, struggled in barely able to keep afloat as the first customer last January 17. She had been battered by one of the worst Atlantic gales of the winter but she has been repaired and is back on the job.

Gifford Paid $210,350

Philadelphia, July 2 (AP)—W. S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph, was paid $210,350 in 1941, the annual report of the company filed with the securities and exchange commission disclosed today. The A. T. & T. paid C. P. Cooper, vice-president, $202,499 and General Counsel C. M. Bracelen, $90,000.

Trapanio Conviction Upheld Unanimously By Appellate Judges

Memorandum Declares Self-Defense Was Not Established During Murder Trial

The conviction of Salvatore Trapanio, found guilty of murder, second degree, in December in County Court, was affirmed unanimously yesterday by the Appellate Division.

Trapanio lived at Tuckers Corners in 1922 when Joseph Ballo, a neighbor, was fatally shot. At the time Trapanio was suspected of the crime but he disappeared after the shooting and it was not until 1941 that he was apprehended in California and brought back to stand trial under the indictment which had been found by an Ulster county grand jury in 1922.

Trapanio, arraigned on September 8, 1941, entered a plea of not guilty and on December 1, 1941 the case was moved to Ulster county. A verdict of guilty as charged was returned by the jury on December 9, 1941, and on December 11, County Judge J. Edward Conway, after denying a motion to set aside the verdict, sentenced Trapanio to a term of from 20 years to life at Clinton State Prison.

Counsel for Trapanio appealed to the Appellate Division from the judgment of conviction and from the order of Judge Conway denying the motion to set aside the verdict of the jury and grant a new trial.

The case was argued in the Appellate Division by District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and that court has now unanimously affirmed the conviction. The brief memorandum which accompanies the order of affirmation says:

This is an appeal from a judgment of conviction for murder, second degree, in Ulster County Court, and from an order denying a motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial.

Joseph Ballo came to his death from gunshot wounds on November 10, 1922, at the town of Plattkill in Ulster county, N. Y. The (Continued on Page 12)

Battle of Egypt Might Be Thread Of Warfare Determining Our Fate

By DeWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)

This waiting for the decision in the battle for Egypt is like sitting outside an operating room in a hospital while a surgeon wields his scalpel in a life or death operation.

The momentous engagement which now is going full blast across the desert near El Alamein, 70 miles west of the great British naval base of Alexandria, may be one of the threads upon which hang "our way of life." Equally it may determine the fate of the Nazi who would make us servants and rob us of our heritage.

General Sir Claude Auchinleck, the British commander, himself, suddenly ended the withdrawal of his army and deliberately precipitated the big battle. At latest reports the fighting was along a front of about 40 miles between the confines of the sea and the great Qattara depression which forms a barrier to military operations and so would protect the allied left flank.

Auchinleck chose this position, I should say, because only a few miles further east the Qattara depression ends and the desert widens out. Thus further retirement would present Nazi Field Marshal Rommel with an opportunity to try to outflank the enemy on their southern wing.

It was the supreme moment for the British commander, himself, (Continued on Page Five)

Army Chief Says Battle Holds Cheer

Auchinleck Describes Preliminary Phases Not Unfavorable to Allies

Reds Ignore Claim

Nazis Say Sevastopol Garrison Quits, Reds Pay No Heed

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Italian headquarters asserted today that Axis troops had stormed and captured El Alamein, only 65 miles west of Britain's great Alexandria naval base, as the British fought along a 35-mile "bottle-neck" front in a desperate attempt to save the Suez Canal and perhaps the entire middle east from German conquest.

Simultaneously, British Imperial headquarters declared that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's armies, meeting the Axis in full shock of battle after a 350-mile retreat in three weeks, beat off heavy attacks at El Alamein yesterday.

Describing preliminary phases of the great battle as "not unfavorable for us," the British communiqué said:

"One attack by enemy tanks effected a temporary break in a defended locality, but later the enemy tanks were driven out and engaged by our columns."

These dispatches from the front said the British, supported by American 28-ton "General Grant" tanks, were engaging Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's victory-flushed invaders in heavy fighting from the Mediterranean coast inland to the Qattara depression.

Sweeping over the narrow fighting zone, allied warplanes including American "Kittyhawk" fighters blasted enemy tanks and troops.

A German broadcast, echoing the Italian claim, declared that Rommel's armies were pursuing the British in retreat toward the Nile after Axis troops had broken through at El Alamein.

Dispatches indicated that Rommel struck under cover of a swirling sandstorm, assaulting the main British forces ranged along the coastal plain in a frontal thrust aimed at Alexandria.

An Italian communiqué said the British positions were "tenaciously defended" and were overrun only after sharp fighting.

Our air force, which repeatedly intervened in the field, dominated the battle in the sky," the Fascist war bulletin asserted.

While the fall of El Alamein would not be disastrous in itself, the Axis claims indicated that Rommel's invaders had already pushed five miles or more into the British system of defense in depth.

The British front line previously had been described as 70 miles west of Alexandria and five miles west of El Alamein.

As Adolf Hitler's North African armies sought a decisive knockout in Egypt, the Russian high command declared that the heroic defenders of Sevastopol still fought on throughout the night—more than 12 hours after Nazi field headquarters announced that the great Crimean citadel had fallen.

Soviet dispatches filed yesterday said overwhelming German forces carried the battle into the streets of Sevastopol itself after breaking through the city's fortifications, but declared that the defenders continued to fight against heavy odds.

"The remainder of the beaten Sevastopol army has fled to the peninsula of Kherones," the German high command asserted.

"Crowded in a very small area, it faces annihilation."

German Claim Ignored

Two successive Russian communiqués ignored the German claim that Sevastopol's garrison surrendered yesterday noon, and today the Soviet command declared:

"The defenders of Sevastopol have covered themselves with unfading glory. They are firmly and courageously defending from the German fascist invaders every inch of Soviet land."

It was possible, however, that the Russians were withholding acknowledgment pending evacuation of survivors of the garrison, who fought off nearly 225,000 Axis troops through 27 days of bloody assault.

In London, informed quarters said the Nazi claim was "not doubted." These quarters said that while fighting in the Crimea (Continued on Page Two)

143rd Merchant Vessel Sinks Off U. S. Coast, Navy Reports

(By The Associated Press)

The Atlantic coastal waters off the United States have become the graveyard of 143 ships since Pearl Harbor with the recent sinking of a large merchant vessel which was announced today by the Navy department. A Brazilian ship was sunk off South America, it was also disclosed, bringing the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of sinkings in the western Atlantic to 331.

All 50 members of the crew of the larger merchant vessel were landed at an east coast port. In the sinking off South America there also were no casualties and survivors were landed at a West Indian port, the Navy announced.

The larger cargo vessel was sunk within sight of its home port after having safely traversed 18,000 miles of submarine and mine infested waters. She went down aflame.

Captain William R. Stewart of Rahway, N. J., although mourning the loss of his ship—"it was home to me"—saved his sextant so that he'd be sure to have one for his next command.

Able-bodied Seaman Vincent Shine, of Ozone Park, Long Island, N. Y., was trapped in the mainmast. "I couldn't see a thing because of the smoke, but grabbed on to a stay and started to slide," he told naval officers who interviewed the crew. "I came shooting out of the smoke into the midst of my shipmates just aft of the bridge."

The Associated Press breakdown of ship losses by United and neutral nations in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor, showed: Sunk off the United States... 143 In the Caribbean... 104 Off Canada... 35 In the Gulf of Mexico... 26 Off South America... 23

Churchill met his critics with a blunt admission of near-disaster in the Mediterranean and Middle East area which he said had brought "a recession of our hopes and prospects...unequaled since the fall of France."

"At any moment we may receive news of grave importance," he told the House of Commons on the heels of Axis reports that the British Eighth Army, driven with heavy losses from Libya and its first Egyptian positions, was again in retreat, less than 70 miles from Alexandria.

He said that the fall of Tobruk, the last bulwark in Italian Libya, had opened the way for eastward invasion of Egypt, had been "utterly unexpected" by the cabinet, the chiefs of staff and General Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander-in-chief of Middle Eastern forces.

Winding up two days of debate on the grave events in Africa, and facing another test of confidence in his government, Churchill spoke gravely to Parliament.

He said that Britain and her allies, including the dominions, the Free French and the Poles, had lost "upwards of 50,000 men" in the last two weeks as the battle of Libya turned into the battle of Egypt.

He added to this figure "a great mass of material" and "large quantities of stores."

On the night before the Libyan bastion, Tobruk, fell to the Axis Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, Churchill said Auchinleck advised the cabinet that the port and fortress city was adequately garrisoned, with its defenses in "good order" and with "90 days' supplies available for the troops."

He said Tobruk was garrisoned by about 25,000 men and that generally British resources were much larger than those of the Axis. In Libya, at the start of the battle, he said, the British had 100,000 men and the Axis 90,000 of which 50,000 were Germans.

"We had superiority in numbers of tanks of perhaps seven to five and superiority in artillery," he said. "Our army throughout the battle enjoyed and enjoys today superiority in the air."

From these circumstances, "we are entitled to feel good confidence in the result of the offensive," planned by the British but forestalled by enemy attack.

Then he told how the change in the Libyan campaign came on June 13.

"That morning we had about 300 tanks in action. By nightfall no more than 70 remained excluding light tanks."

This happened, Churchill said, "without any corresponding loss inflicted on the enemy" and said that Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's counter-attack on June 4 also resulted in heavy losses, that time in British artillery.

Here he interjected his statement that "considerable reinforcements" have reached or "are approaching" the British defenders of Alexandria.

"It is for the House to decide," Churchill said, whether "these facts result from faulty central direction of the war or from the terrible hazards and unforeseeable accidents of battle."

Late Sports Bulletin

Boston, July 2 (AP)—Ted Williams, heavy-hitting outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, was fined $250 and given a semi-public "dressing-down" today because of his loafing and sulking yesterday when he was ridden by the fans during a double-header with the Washington Senators.

Heavy-jawed Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, announced the fine despite a public apology by Williams, and added:

"I felt it necessary, also, to dress him down in front of the entire ball club."

Cronin called a meeting of his players at Fenway Park shortly before today's game with Washington was called off because of weather, and gave his slim slugger a chance to apologize to his teammates before he, himself, stepped in.

FOES IN DISGUISE

What shall be done with Ernest Burger, Robert Quirin, Edward Kerling, Herbert Haupt, George Dasch, Heinrich Heinck, Walter Thiel and Hermann Neubauer? They are the sabotage experts carefully trained in Germany, brought to this country in submarines and set ashore with powerful bombs to blow up key defense industries in this country? There are doubtless more of the same breed here, or on the way, for the same purpose. They came ashore in German uniforms and then changed to civilian clothes to prepare for their work.

All of these men had lived in the United States and profited by its advantages, though some had returned to Germany to live. At least two were American citizens. One had been a member of the Michigan National Guard. Some had been active members of the German-American Bund.

There is no doubt about what would be done with American civilians caught in similar activities in Germany. They would be promptly shot. And if any of their relatives were accessible, they would probably be shot, too.

Some of these men seem clearly guilty of treason and the others are at least classifiable as alien enemies engaged in criminal or military warfare against the United States. If all were shot, the fewer of their kind we should have to deal with hereafter.

PEOPLE WANT ACTION

When anybody writes a critical letter to a newspaper, it probably means that a lot of other people are thinking in the same way. So editors take such letters seriously, whether they agree or not. Here is a letter in point, printed in an out-of-town paper.

"Anger is not enough," says the writer. "The situation calls for action. The public has faith in our fighting forces. Why, after showing our hand in the Doolittle raid, did we quit? Had the Doolittle raid been kept up for even a week, on their vulnerable hydro-electric plants, etc., the Jap war would now be over. Then the whole works could have been turned loose on the Hitler egomaniacs.

"What is the matter with us all?" This waiting game all over the map is silly. With 5,000 airplanes a month, we should be ashamed of our continued idleness, and China should be disgusted with us. Hot air is about all they get from us."

It isn't all so simple as this. But certainly the people and the times call for action.

COLLECTION FAILURES

That we are sometimes too optimistic is not news. It is confirmed by the reports on the aluminum collections. At the time, they received much publicity, with constant bulletins of this doused water tank, or that mountain pile of saucapans, which had been unearthed and turned in. The impression was that the campaign was going wonderfully well.

Then the W.P.B. announced that only 6,400,000 tons were collected, though 15,000,000 had been looked for. While difficulties in transporting the aluminum brought in may explain part of the shortage, it is too plain that the campaign was a disappointment. It was, however, the first of the big salvage drives and was not well organized. The experience gained in it is helping the later efforts.

Other collection drives are expected shortly, one for grease and fats. The aluminum failure should teach people not to put too much faith in rosy reports, and to spur themselves on to added effort and sacrifice.

STALKING ADOLF

There is a certain feeling of satisfaction in learning that a tribal chief far up the Niger River, in the African interior, has assigned three stout sons to go to Germany and kill Hitler with their bows and arrows. "They will stalk him like any other jungle beast," he says.

Yet the enterprise doesn't seem very practical. It would be very hard to get near enough for the job, with those bows and arrows. Modern European strategy requires either a less direct approach or a different choice of weapons. There is a wide range available. Anything from pistol to bombing plane would be ethical, and at least theoretically possible.

It really is remarkable, in view of the immense and unprecedented devilry that Hitler has perpetrated, that he has not been bumped off the European scene long before this. Even if he bears a charmed life guaranteed by Satan himself, how is he able to continue dodging the logical back-lash of so many hundred thousand murders?

SIR OR MADAM?

Would you say "Sir" to a lady? Naturally not, but what if she is an officer? That is the weighty problem presented by the new women's army auxiliary corps. New bridegrooms have a problem of like importance: how address the new mother-in-law? Many of them solve the problem temporarily by the word, "Say." That obviously would not do for an army officer, man or woman.

It is reported that "Ma'am" is to be employed. Why not "Madam"? That sounds less colloquial. The Queen of England is so addressed; "Madam Chairman" is correct in a woman's club; why not thus address a woman lieutenant?

Some solution must be formed, and quickly, for the new corps will soon be here.

Now that "bicycles built for two" are coming in again, why not lengthen 'em to accommodate the whole family?

FORESIGHT

What is going to become of brokers, salesmen, operators of travel agencies, tourist camps, roadside restaurants, hotels, gas stations, garages, radio stores and repair shops, and—the list could be lengthened indefinitely.

Anyone who knew these things would have so much knowledge that he would probably know when the war would end.

Such times! When a fellow keeps up with the news, he can't get anything else done.

Our idea of a good fight would be one between Rommel and Timoshenko.

As Shakespeare might have said reproachfully, "Et tu, Attu!"

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act) HEALTH IN THIS WAR

When the results of the examination of men selected or drafted for the United States army were announced, there was widespread astonishment that such a large percentage was rejected. When these results were compared with those of 1917, it showed that the manpower was not as healthy as in the last war.

There is no denying the fact that a great number are unfit at present for front-line overseas service but what is not realized is that a large percentage of those rejected can be made fit for front line duty in a very short time. They are really healthy individuals with small defects of teeth or they may be slightly nearsighted.

In an article in Hygiene, The Health Magazine, Lieut. Colonel Amos R. Koontz points out that the American army recognizes only three classes so far as physical fitness is concerned: qualified for general military service; qualified for limited service; disqualified for military service. As only the first class has so far been called, a large percentage of the men classed as rejected really fall into the second class and will likely be called for duty when needed. Many of these "rejected" men enjoy perfect health and are engaged in useful civil occupations.

What makes it appear that the men of today are not as fit as for the last war? The physical examinations are more thorough—X-ray of chest of every man; any known history of strange or unusual behavior, causes rejection. Standards of acceptance are higher.

Up to July 1st, 1942, the age group accepted for this war included older men (21 to 36) than those examined in 1917.

That the men selected for service for this war are better physically than those of the previous war, is shown by the fact that there is much less sickness in the camps now than was the case in 1917. The first lesson for all of us is that while we may be healthy, many are not really physically fit for work that requires more physical labor.

The second lesson is that many of the conditions that keep us from being physically fit—overweight, soft muscles, lack of or poor teeth, slight infection, poor vision—could be corrected and we could become fit.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

In a recent sketch I wrote of the burning of the steamyacht John McCausland off Turkey Point in the Hudson river, and today I received a communication from a reader of the column reminding me that there was also the steamyacht Glenierie, which ran in conjunction with the McCausland on the Rondout-Glasco route on the Hudson river.

My reader writes that there were many brickyards between Rondout and Glasco, and the boats were the only means of transportation between these towns and Rondout.

This was in the days before the present big auto busses came into existence.

Saturdays were big days for the steamyachts for it was pay-day on the brickyards. The workers would take the noon yacht to Rondout, do their shopping, wet and dry, and return on the late afternoon boat. If you missed the yacht you were in bad shape for if you desired to return home that day you would have to hire a horse-driven rig, and that would cost from $2 to $5, depending upon the distance covered.

Information from old residents discloses that there were 27 brickyards between Port Jervis and Saugerties during the steamyacht era, making approximately 325 million bricks during the summer season, and employing some 3,500 men.

To make the trip now would require the use of a motorboat. The writer of the letter adds "And I believe it would be worth one's while, for a recent survey shows only two of the 27 brickyards now operating; seven closed indefinitely and 18 gone out of business."

"Unless you keep close to the shore" he writes "you will miss many of these sites, because of the dense growth of trees and bushes that hide the ruins and decaying structures. Even the well built docks, where cargoes were loaded and unloaded, have fallen into the channel and have become shoresh.

"I wonder," he writes "how many of the older residents can remember hearing the whistles of some of the brickyards on the outskirts of the city. At the first sign of daybreak, they would begin blasting and tooting until it seemed that the engineer had forgotten to shut off the whistle."

LIFE CHANCES MOUNT
Sir Wilson Jameson, chief medical officer of Scotland, cites "a most remarkable demonstration of the success of inoculation against diphtheria." Of 389,000 children not treated there were 418 deaths, more than one in a thousand. Of 766,000 treated there was only one death, one in more than three-quarters of a million. His report filed in Edinburgh is for 1941.

BRIDE TO EMBARK
It was a pre-embarkation ceremony, but the bride was the one who was going away for war work when Flight Lieutenant J. Houston and W. A. A. F. Selection Officer Sema Rubenstein were married in Norwich, England. The couple, who met in an R. A. F. station six months ago, decided to marry when the girl was assigned to overseas duty.

Train Sabotage Seen
Derailment of a 10-car war supply train en route from Mexico City to Guadalajara is ascribed by the National Railways to sabotage and perhaps Fifth Column activities. Four of the cars contained gasoline, three crude oil, and one explosives. The engineer, fireman and two brakemen were injured and the line was blocked for eight hours.

Keep our boys tiptop by putting the U. S. O. drive over the top.

A DIME YOU'LL NEVER MISS MAY SAVE A SOLDIER'S LIFE!

It's a fact that a single 10-cent piece can be the means of saving a soldier's life—because the five cartridges it buys can make the difference between victory and defeat for one of our boys. Think then what more money will do, if put regularly into U. S. War Savings Stamps! Order them delivered to your home, week after week, by your newspaper carrier boy. This coupon, filled in, will be all the authorization he needs. Hand it to him next time he stops!

I would like to have 10-cent War Savings Stamps delivered to my home each week until further notice.

News From Egypt Finds Washington Complacently Expecting Some Turn of Good War Reports

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 2.—The disquieting news from Egypt has made an impression here that is difficult to describe. For Washington has had and still has a certain complacency about the war which takes bad news as a temporary occurrence to be followed inevitably by good news from somewhere.

There is a curious opportunism about the attitude here toward what is happening abroad. One reason, of course, is that criticism of the President is almost never expressed because the whole tendency is to cry out against critics as unpatriotic or sixth columnists. Hence the whole war effort suffers from a lack of frankness with the public which does not mean necessarily that the war is going to be lost but that it will be unduly prolonged and that it will be costlier in lives than it should be.

Along with the hush-hush policy is a tendency to hold as unpatriotic those who criticize the British. Yet it is clear that there is something vitally wrong with the British high command and the whole organizing side of the war effort as operated from London. Congress, which might be expected to represent the people of the United States in matters vitally affecting their interest, has been strangely acquiescent and passive this week. Here and there a few members have spoken out against the failures reflected in the war news but no group has had the temerity to ask questions concerning the general management of the war.

Such an interrogation of the British would be frowned upon by the administration as an effort to impair the unity of the country or be obscured by some other excuse that manages every now and then to keep the public from knowing the true responsibility for the mistakes made.

The bulk of the truth about Pearl Harbor has never been disclosed and the reason given is that it would help the enemy. But it would appear that the public criticism of what happened at Pearl Harbor did result in some worthwhile changes in the high command of our army and navy insofar as joint operations are concerned.

Something of the same sort of inquiry into the management of the war, even if not granted now, might if merely discussed in connection with the war.

What is needed is a high command consisting of army and navy officers of both countries who can function as a general staff with responsibility as a group, reporting not to the heads of war or navy departments or ministries of defense but to the prime minister of Britain and the President of the United States. It is doubtful whether these men would override the decisions of such a group.

The British and American peoples would then know that decisions were being made by the men who know most about war and who are not beholden in any way to factions or group interests, but are objectively concerned with the making of a broad strategy which it would be the duty of all armed services to consummate no matter what the risk or the costs. (Reproduction rights reserved).

Abraham Lincoln so, off stage as it were.

As "Tap Roots" opens, Sam is sitting under "The Tree" nursing Old Nap, which is the cancer that is killing him. Around him is his family, at work. Before the house, the Dabneys, which earns heavy tolls. The Dabney mill does well, and so does the Dabney store. Life could be good, but Sam sees very well the strains as they increase between his people and their way of life, and the South as a developing concept. He sighs that he cannot live to see the battle through, although he lives in pain, and welcomes the fatigue that precedes death.

Mr. Street's book is the story of Sam's family through the War Between the States. Each member of the family is a character in a book, down to young Bruce, who is a builder like Sam, and Kyd, who really was a Cajun and no Dabney at all. Certain of the people in "Tap Roots" have been lifted from history, notably Keith Alexander, the man of mystery. You cannot summarize so long and so rich a story as this with any kind of justice. But you can enjoy it, and "Tap Roots" seems to have been written for exactly that.

Volga to Be Dammed
Russia's Mississippi, the Volga, which runs the land of furs to the land of cotton, will be dammed by a project twice the size of Grand Coulee, America's largest dam, Moscow announces. The dam will give the Volga a share of irrigation work with the Don.

Washington In Wartime
By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The capital in wartime: Shed a tear for Bob Strauss, WPB press relations man. He wanted to do something, himself personal, for the sugar situation. He decided to acquire some honey bees.

He went to his boss, Donald Nelson, formerly top executive in Sears-Roebuck. "I understand that S-R has bees for sale," said Strauss. "Do you think I could get some?"

"Certainly," replied Nelson. "If I remember my catalog correctly, you can get a queen bee, the rest of the swarm, a hive, a head net, and a smudge pot for a very moderate sum."

Strauss put in the order. It was delivered. The hive, however, was missing and in its place was a notation that materials in the hive were under priorities and that same could not be supplied at the moment.

With bees swarming all over his yard, Strauss dashed back to his chief. Nelson suggested he contact the Department of Agriculture and find out how to build a hive. Strauss did. His plans arrived. He studied them thoroughly and was about to start work when he came upon a footnote. It explained that nails absolutely necessary to construction of this type of hive are under priorities and not obtainable.

Bob isn't in bees any more but he's an expert on what can happen to the individual when priorities get in the way.

Nobody can tell a better story on the British than the British. Ever at the British Purchasing Commission, they had hired a 12-year-old U. S. kid as office boy.

One of the rules of the commission (the Army made it, not the BPC) is that when any British officer enters the room, the civilian employees must rise and stand at attention until he leaves the room. The 12-year-old, who does most of his work sitting down, was asked: "Do you mind standing up?" "Why don't you tell 'em that's no proper way to show their consideration for lend-lease?"

The lad, was most literal; next day he kept his seat when an officer entered. The officer read the riot act. The youth got in his say about "lend-lease." The officer stormed out.

A half-hour later, the Britisher who was civilian head of the office, called the boy to his desk. In his most severe manner, he said: "I must for that, young man, you will have to leave the office from now on at four o'clock instead of five."

Down in one of the long, barn-like corridors of the Munitions building the other day, the news photographers were set up and waiting.

General Marshall walked down the hall. The cameramen didn't flash a bulb. A shocked minor officer rushed up to them. "Don't you know who that was that just went by?" he almost screamed.

"Sure," said one of the boys, "but why waste film? We're waiting for Clark Gable."

County Volunteer Spotters To Stress Week-End Watch

Aircraft Warning Service volunteers of the First Fighter Command covering the "observation posts" in Ulster county, will be especially vigilant in the discharge of their duties during the July 4th week-end, according to Eugene P. MacConnell, district civil director of the A. W. S. for this area.

Not only will extra precaution be taken to maintain the perfect "spotter" record, but all of the chief air observers will check their posts frequently and maintain extra "spotters" on hand to lessen the strain and tension of those on duty.

The recent landing of eight Nazi spies from an enemy submarine in New York brings extra local effort.

Visitors to this area, may slumber peacefully in the knowledge that "spotters" have given up their personal and well earned week-end vacation so that they may maintain the dictum of Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the Air Forces, that "they serve well who stand and wait."

Observation posts in proximity to Shokan reservoir will be closely checked and have an extra observer on duty. Such posts are AWS 150-D at Olive Bridge, with Alonzo Davis as chief observer and AWS 1219-B at Lyonsville High Point, with Frederick Kristeller as chief observer.

Philip T. Schantz of Highland and Henry M. Winkelman of Stone Ridge, both sub-district civil directors will stand-by for calls from any chief observer.

County Buys War Stamps

Auto Receipts Drop

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—New York's gross motor vehicle receipts dropped nearly $2,000,000 the first four months of this year, the department of taxation and finance reports. The loss was from $46,731,820 last year, to $44,960,733. After "years" of steady increase, a five per cent decline in motor vehicle registrations was noted for the four-month period.

which Rommel had been striving, since he not only was anxious to engage the British before the latter had a chance to reorganize their disorganized forces, but he wanted to do battle before his dangerously drawn out lines of communication were further extended. The Nazi commander's supply lines likely are his greatest menace, especially since the allies claim air superiority and American and British warplanes have been raking his communications and supply bases unceasingly. The one item of supply upon which both armies depended for their very lives was water, every drop of which had to be transported over the burning sands under bombardment. Lack of water meant horrible death in that fierce temperature.

Early reports left the trend of the battle uncertain. The Italians today claimed the capture of El Alamein. Berlin followed this up with the assertion that the Axis forces had broken the enemy line and that the British were in retreat. There was no immediate confirmation of this, the British merely recording a repulse of heavy Axis attacks yesterday and saying that the fighting was "not unfavorable for us."

Meanwhile, over on the other side of Hitler's pincers operations the Nazis claimed the capture of the important Russian naval base of Sevastopol, which the German communique described as the "most powerful land and sea fortress in the world." Informed quarters in London said they didn't doubt the Berlin claim.

The fall of Sevastopol, while not a decisive event, would have far reaching effects both strategic and political. For one thing it would weaken Russia's hold on the Black Sea and would increase Nazi pressure on Turkey.

While all this was going on the British House of Commons was calling on Prime Minister Churchill for an accounting of his stewardship in view of the reverses in Libya. Well, there's nothing the mother of parliaments can do at this late hour that will alter the outcome of the battle which is being fought almost at the gates of Alexandria.

Still, though it may seem a bit incongruous to be staging a full-dress debate, while the Gods of war roll the dice to determine the fate of the middle east and maybe of the world conflict, it's good to see John Bull maintaining his democratic right to raise hell with the government. After all, that's one of the things this war is being fought for—to preserve the right to free speech and rule by the people.

Minutemen Start Canvass in County

Workers in All Townships on War Bond Pledge Drive in Region

The War Bond pledge campaign in Ulster county, which is under the general chairmanship of Harold Brigham, is now being prosecuted throughout the entire county. The organization work has been completed and Extension Service Minutemen, with a chairman in each town, are canvassing the towns and securing pledges for the purchase of bonds.

Extension Minutemen chairmen in the various towns are:

Esopus—Mrs. Culver TenBroeck. Gardiner—Dr. Clifford Hoppenstedt. Hardenburgh—Waldon DuMond. Hurley—Claude Pallen. Kingston—Harry Siemsen. Lloyd—Mrs. John J. Gaffney. Marlborough—Arnold Van Laer. Marlborough—Gerry Maier. New Paltz—Fred DuBois, Jr. Olive—Mrs. C. H. Weidner. Plattekill—Eber Coy. Rochester—Franklin Kelder. Rosendale—The Rev. Wilhelm Haysom. Saugerties—Mrs. Harry Wells. Shandaken—F. M. Cleveland. Shawangunk—Herbert DuBois. Ulster—Myron Boice. Wawarsing—Mrs. Chandler Young.

Woodstock—Birge H. Simmons. The Extension Minutemen consist of chairmen from the several townships recommended by the Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Club Association, with each chairman selecting a group of assistants to help carry on the work.

They form a group enlisted for the duration, with headquarters at the Ulster County Farm Bureau office and already have been of service in disseminating information throughout the communities of the county in different phases of war activity, such as sugar rationing, gas rationing, salvaging of scrap rubber, the use of trucks, etc.

When Mr. Brigham asked for assistance in canvassing the county in the war bond pledge campaign the Extension Minutemen were called into action and they now are busy securing pledges throughout the county area.

Army Seeks Names Of 21 Dead in Plane

Battle Creek, Mich., where both men are stationed. They notified newspapers after noting their names in accounts of the crash.

A scorched postcard found near the wreckage bore this message: "All that a birthday can hold of joy—that's what I am wishing for my dear boy." It was signed "Pop."

The plane was believed en route from a northern airfield to a base in the south. A detachment of soldiers from an army post in Ohio arrived to take charge of the wreckage last night.

Ten bodies were removed by rescuers from the hull of the still-blazing ship shortly after the crash just after noon. Later another body was found and ten more were taken from the plane by state troopers after the wreckage had cooled. All bodies were brought to Welch.

Meaney Is Confirmed

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Thomas F. Meaney of Jersey City was confirmed yesterday for the New Jersey Federal District Court bench by a 39 to 20 senate vote, terminating a militant fight by the opposition which spread from Meaney's home state into the senate chamber. The vote was along party lines with a few more than half of the 96 members in their seats for the roll call. Senator Herring (D-Iowa) was the single member of the majority party to cast a negative vote and Senator Danaher (R-Conn) was the only Republican voting in his favor.

Additional Guards Needed For Duty at Local Airport

Due to the young men joining the armed forces and defense work, vacancies in the airport guard schedules are becoming a serious problem at the volunteer office. More volunteers are needed immediately for this work.

It has been suggested that young men who are spending the summer or even a few weeks at their homes from college courses volunteer for this work. In this manner time schedules may be arranged so that the college students may have an opportunity to enlist in home defense project. Qualifications for guarding the airport are listed as follows: Must be over 21 years of age, produce a birth certificate, have no police record.

The Volunteer Office at 247 Clinton avenue will be open for registration in addition to its regular hours, tonight and next Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock. Volunteers may report to this office or directly to the Kingston airport for instructions. Further information may be obtained by calling the volunteer office, 1125, or the airport, 2699.

A Marital Quiz

Who washes up the dishes

When she entertains her club?

Who feeds the birds and fishes,

Who carries home the grub?

My wife's husband.

Who keeps the home fires burning?

Who wrestles with the coal?

Who keeps the clock wheels turning

Who washes Towser's bowl?

The same one as above.

Who never puts a screw-lid

Correctly on a jar?

Who keeps my favorite tie hid,

Who helps wear out my car?

Her husband's wife.

Who cooks delicious dinner

Who keeps the house in order

For this poor hapless sinner,

Her matrimonial boarder?

The woman that I love!

—Norman I. Schiller.

A check on wasteful public spending is just as important to the national defense as are many of the other things we hear more about in these days when we are being urged to unite in support of the war effort.

Kind Old Gentleman—What's

your little brother's name?

Buddy—His name would be Jack

if he was my brother, but he ain't, and her name is Ruth.

The only thing that counts in this war is results. We want these results and we want them quickly.

Agnes—She uses words I don't understand.

Teacher—Polysyllable?

Agnes—Yes, and some longer than that.

Luck. There was a man so successful in just about everything he undertook that his friends named him "Lucky." He accepted it with a smile, and one day explained:

"Yes, I'm a great believer in luck.

And the harder I work the more of it I seem to have."

Simms—There are times when benefit may be derived from the advice of a fool.

Mrs. Simms—You certainly shouldn't complain. Haven't I always listened to yours?

Stand by the government; do your part if the time comes—but you don't need to be noisy about it. Smokeless powder and Maxim silencers have made war less noisy;

but it's vastly more deadly than ever before. Don't stand for abuse of our country by anyone, but just because a neighbor is silent, don't charge him with lack of patriotism. "Keep your shirt on."

First Worker—What did the boss do when you told him it was triplets.

Second Worker—He promoted me to the head of my department.

First Worker—What department are you in?

Second Worker—Production department.

We hear much about co-ordination, especially in our efforts to win the war. It's a big word but has the simplest definition.

Efforts to accomplish anything put forth by a large number of people, each man and woman doing work that ties in with what others are doing, must to achieve best results, meet conditions of time, progress, and completion.

This is more than team-work—

it's working together as one big human machine, turning out a single product. Only effort of people and nations so put forth will win this war.

Folders Issued

County Publicity Group

Sends Material to Agencies

Twenty thousand attractive 10-

with compelling scenes and printed in four colors, have just been issued by the Ulster County Publicity Committee and distributed to transportation companies, result and travel bureaus and large organizations in the metropolitan area.

They extend a cordial welcome to city dwellers to "come to nearby Ulster county for a refreshing interlude between tense war-time days, in a "lovely countryside bordering the Hudson, where the northern Catskills merge with the Shawangunk mountains," with elevations ranging from sea level to 4,200 feet.

"Gasoline and rubber shortage needn't make you stay at home," suggests the committee, noting that Ulster county is only 90 miles from New York city and is accessible by boat, train, or bus,

as well as by automobile.

Attention is called to the fact that Ulster county is a "treasure-land of history," the site of a

Dutch fort before the days when the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, besides offering to the vacationist a varied program of sports and entertainment that it would be hard to duplicate anywhere.

The folder notes that there are accommodations to suit every taste and every use and lists information centers which may be contacted by prospective visitors.

interested are asked to write to

Wendy Will Have English Girl Guides

Camp Wendy will soon be opened and ready for the campers to come with their equipment for two, four or six happy weeks. Miss Parrish, who has been spending some time in the West has returned and has a complete staff ready to assist her. The Ulster County Girl Scout Camp is giving a home to two English Girl Guides for the entire six weeks period. Many Girl Scout camps throughout the country are doing the same thing and Camp Wendy is glad to do its share. These Girl Guides will be able to give a great many things of interest to the camp.

Scattered over 50 acres of a combination of lake, open and wooded land are six units in Camp Wendy. These units are divided according to the experience and age of the girls. They are called: Brownies, Indians, Explorers, Greenwood, Pioneer and Romany. Miss Mary Stosly will be head of the Brownies. Only girls under ten are in this group and there is one leader for every four girls. The Pioneer and Romany units are for the more experienced campers. They are separated from the main camp by a footbridge. Here the girls do their own cooking, going to the main camp some days only for supplies.

Wilber-Joffe Wedding

Sunday at West Hurley

Miss Rita Simone Joffe of Lake Hill became the bride of Allen Wilber, Sunday, June 26. The wedding took place in the rectory of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, West Hurley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Joffe of Lake Hill, formerly of Brooklyn. She is a graduate of the New York School of Designing and the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Mr. Wilber is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilber of Mink Hollow road, Lake Hill.

The bride was dressed in a gown of white slipper satin with long train. She wore a white mantilla of Mexican lace which had been worn by her grandmother at her wedding. The bride's bouquet was of white roses and baby's breath, with a shower of ribbons and white sweet peas.

After the wedding ceremony the guests returned to the Joffe home where a reception and buffet lunch was served to over 100 guests. Much disappointment was felt that the El Chico band of New York City was unable to be there, as had been planned, due to the banning of chartered busses. Mr. Joffe is manager of the Spanish restaurant and night club, El Chico, in Greenwich Village. He is grandnephew of Marshall Joffe of World War I.

Late in the evening, the couple left for a trip to Niagara Falls and to make stops in other cities of New York state. Mrs. Wilber is traveling in dress of black slipper satin, with a blouse of peach colored satin. This dress was remade by the bride from her grandmother's traveling dress.

Goldsmith-Jayne

Gardiner, July 2.—Miss Elizabeth Burns Jayne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Jayne of Gardiner, was married Sunday, June 28, to William Goldsmith of Schenectady. The ceremony was performed at the Dutch Reformed Church in Gardiner.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white organdie gown with finger-tip veil. She carried white roses and gardenias. The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Carolyn Jayne, who wore peach organdie and a blue flower hat with peach shoulder veil. She carried deep blue delphinium. Mrs. John Montanya of Suffern and Miss Helen Jayne of Great Neck, L. I., sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore similar frocks and carried pale blue delphinium.

Best man for the bridegroom was Joseph Runk of Wallkill. George Vogel of Wallkill and Frank Jayne, brother of the bride were ushers.

A reception was held in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith left for Schenectady where the bridegroom is employed in defense work.

Is Married Saturday

MRS. CHESTER S. KOOP

Mrs. Chester S. Koop is the former Miss Grace Winifred Smith of High Falls. Her marriage to Dr. Koop of Islip took place in St. John's Episcopal Church, High Falls, last Saturday, June 27. The bride is a member of the Islip High School faculty, and Dr. Koop, who has received his Ensign Commission in the Naval Reserve Medical Corps, will intern at the Welfare Island Hospital until he is called into service.

ON OCCASION BRIDEGROOM'S FAMILY CAN GIVE WEDDING

As we all know, it is against the rules of convention for the family of the bridegroom to give the wedding—and yet in times like the present, it would seem lacking in good sense to say no exceptions can be made. For example, the mother of a soldier-bridegroom writes:

"My son's bride who lives very far from here, is coming to our town for the wedding because we live near Fort X where my son is stationed. I would like to give the wedding reception, but she thinks she should let a friend from her home, who is married to an officer at Fort X, give it for her. We have the larger house and most of the guests will of necessity be our friends and relatives. I think in a case like this it would be sensible to let us give it. I have a strong suspicion that a word from you would be the deciding factor."

As already said, according to etiquette, the bridegroom's family is not supposed to give the bride her wedding dress or her trousseau or to pay for any of the expenses of the wedding. The reason for this traces many generations back to the idea that the daughter of a family of small means who is marrying a man whose family is conspicuously well-off, is belittling her own family by having a big and lavish wedding given by these in-laws to be, instead of having a very simple wedding and a very simple trousseau within the means of her own family.

However, all of this is plainly outside the present war-time situation, and in further answer I can find no sensible reason why the wedding reception may not be held in your house. If her parents lived in the same town that would be different.

Ridiculous Invitations?

Dear Mrs. Post: Why does an invitation have to be sent to the bridegroom? Or is my friend wrong when she tells me that he is at the head of the list? She also says that his mother and father have to be sent an invitation. It seems to our family that these two invitations are wholly unnecessary and a little ridiculous in fact.

Answer: No, this is not ridiculous—unless he already has seen them and perhaps even helped address them. And most certainly an invitation should be sent to the bridegroom's parents.

1 pound beef, chopped
1 1/2 cups uncooked rice
1 tablespoon chopped onions
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped green peppers.

3/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons bacon fat
2 cups tomatoes

Mix all ingredients except tomatoes. Shape into 2-inch balls. Place in a buttered baking dish. Cover with the tomatoes and add lid. Bake 1 1/2 hours in moderate slow oven (325). Uncover last 15 minutes to brown.

Green Beans Bettina

3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons minced onions
2 tablespoons diced celery
2 cups cooked beans
3/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon paprika

1 hard cooked egg, diced
Brown onion slightly in butter. Add the rest of ingredients. Cover and simmer 5 minutes.

If your meat sauce has a wan and pallid look, mix in a bouillon cube and let simmer 5 minutes. The sauce also will have more nutrition as well as a more appetizing color and flavor.

Make sure that all the juice has been drained out of a can of fruit. Pour a tablespoon of fresh cold water into the can after the contents have been removed. Shake and pour into the rest of the juice and fruit. Extra care should be taken to prevent waste.

Robot Safeguards Mail System for American Troops

Method Reduces Full Letter to Photographic Film, Eventually Matter Is Enlarged

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Wide World Science Editor)

Rochester, N. Y., July 2.—A robot which can feel a thickness of one-thousandth of an inch in letter-writing paper safeguards the newly adopted system of transporting mail for American troops abroad.

The system, inaugurated this month, reduces a soldier's complete letter to a photographic film five-lengths of an inch square, transports it to destination as film, then photographically enlarges the letter to reading size.

This makes it possible to transport millions of letters by air, with savings of sometimes weeks or months over ordinary mail. The system, devised by the Eastman Kodak Company, was first put into use by the British two years ago for their Near East troops.

The letters are photographed on a continuous strip of film, so that a roll small enough to hold in one palm enables the ordinary-size letter capacity of a fully-stuffed mail bag. The thickness-feeler comes into use to prevent confusion and loss in copying letters at high speed into so little film space.

The letters are photographed at speeds of 100 per minute. As they drop straight down to pass before the camera, there is danger of two sheets sticking together, pressing through as one so that the sheet underneath fails to be recorded.

The thickness-feeler is a metal slot. Each letter is written on a special form, on paper four-thousandths of an inch thick. The slot can feel the extra width if two letters try to enter together.

The slight extra pressure of two thicknesses is used to actuate an electric circuit which stops the machine. The apparatus also stops if electric current fluctuates, or the film runs to an end or the automatic camera's driving mechanism gets out of order.

Whenever it stops, the robot machine rings an alarm. If the operator either carelessly, or for cause, opens the interior while the film is running, a winding motor rolls up the unexposed film as a safeguard against accidental exposure to light of letters already photographed.

The bottom of the form letter contains a sign in block red, "V-mail." This sign is not just an advertisement slogan or name. It is photographed along with the contents of the letter.

It photographs in black, and when the film, at destination, is re-run for enlargement, the V-mail sign acts as a chopper. The shadow it casts, just as the end of the soldier's letter passes the recording camera, actuates a knife to cut off the photographic paper in which the letter is recopied.

The recopying is done on a continuous film at the rate of about 100 letters a minute.

In Britain the system was put into use by Airgraphs, Ltd., a subsidiary of the Eastman Company, which has made the process available to the U. S. Government without royalties.

Officials Are Given Vindication in Rule Of Appellate Group

Rochester, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Almost a year to the day from their convictions on conspiracy charges, three ex-councilmen and three former city officials of Lackawanna stand vindicated by the Appellate Division, Fourth Department.

Declaring a political rift in the Lackawanna council was "an unlikely background for the hatching of criminal conspiracy," the Appellate Division unanimously reversed Supreme Court misdemeanor convictions against the sextet and dismissed the indictments.

The group, which included former Republican Mayor John F. Aszkler, were not charged with profiting financially from any of the alleged transactions, the court pointed out yesterday.

Prosecution, leaning to their convictions June 30, 1941 after a four-week trial, had claimed the defendants loaded the city with unnecessary workers and allowed illegal use of city money and property.

The case drew statewide notice and when the mayor and council members resigned after receiving suspended one-year sentences and $500 fines last November 1, the city was left without government for a week. Governor Lehman then appointed councilmen-elect and a mayor-elect to serve to January 1.

In addition to Aszkler, the appellants were former Council President John F. Citak, a Democrat; ex-Councilmen William H. Carroll and Julius Karsa, Democrat and Republican respectively; former City Court Clerk John J. Rooney, and former City Projects Manager Stanley Budzynski.

Another ex-councilman, Joseph Kasprzak, Democrat, pleaded guilty at the start of the trial. He was given a suspended one-year sentence and was fined $250.

To Hold Picnic

The annual picnic of the Emmanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church will be held in Forsyth Park Saturday of this week, July 4. Picnic meals will be served at noon and in the evening. Refreshments will be on sale at the pavilion throughout the day. Children desiring transportation to the park are requested to assemble at the church at 10 o'clock. In case of rain the picnic activities will be held on the church grounds on Livingston street.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes through which they filter the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have trouble sleeping. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, ruffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes shed out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Jack Dawkins Has Listed Veterans For Stadium Tilt

Entire Proceeds Will Be Given to Local Fund; Vets to Practice Next Tuesday

Jack Dawkins, veteran of many old City League battles, has assembled a ball club including other veteran ball players who will meet the Hiltebrants of the present City League in a benefit game for the U.S.O. at the municipal stadium, Sunday, July 12.

The entire proceeds of this day-light game which is slated for 3 o'clock will be given to the local U.S.O. drive. Hiltebrants will use the regular league lineup. Manager Dawkins' "Old Timers" are scheduled to hold a practice session at Loughran Park next Tuesday night to work the kinks out of their muscles and get ready to give local baseball fandom some good ball playing.

Leading the roster of the "Old Timers" is Jimmy Morgan, who formerly played first base in the old City League and may start at that position in the U.S.O. benefit game. Other veteran players on the squad include Kid Moore, Tommy Davitt, Bob Tierney, Jack Robins and Charlie Husta.

Manager Dawkins has selected Robins, Joe Hoffman and Joe Messinger as his catchers. Bill Thomas, "Tody" Uhl and Paul Joyce will be ready for mound assignments. Infielders listed are Jimmy Morgan, Charlie Tiano, Tom Davitt, Bob Sickler and Jack Husta. Charlie Lay, Mac Tiano, Manager Dawkins, Kid Moore, Marty Carr, Bob Tierney and Sam Sperling are ready for outfield duty.

Although no official starting lineup has been announced for the "Old Timers." It may be something like that at game time. Charlie Tiano, Tommy Davitt, Bob Sickler and Carl Husta in the infield, with Charlie Lay, Kid Moore and Sam Sperling in the outer gardens. Bill Thomas and Jack Robins is the likely starting battery.

Red Sox Capture Two Games From Nats; Cards Shut Out Pirates, 4-0

(By The Associated Press)

It has been some time since anyone needed to feel sorry for the world champion New York Yankees, but their plight is getting more pathetic night and day.

Since marching boldly out of Yankee Stadium nearly three weeks ago they have lost 11 out of 17 contests and last night saw their American League lead cut to three games as they blew a 5-4 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics.

This was a reduction of 1½ games in their first place margin in a single day because of the Boston Red Sox's second straight doubleheader victory over the Washington Senators.

The Yankees were held to five hits by three Philadelphia pitchers, but this was not what whipped them. The champs held a 4-0 lead at the end of four innings, one of the runs being Joe DiMaggio's 11th homer of the year. But then the Yanks folded up as they have done in four of their last five games.

Yanks Blow Lead
They couldn't score any more themselves and they let the A's rally for two runs in the fifth and tie the score in the seventh. Then in the ninth, with runners on first and second, Johnny Murphy fielded Relief Pitcher Luman Harris' bunt and threw into leftfield to allow the winning run to cross the plate. Altogether the A's made 14 hits.

Washington was held to five hits in each game and the Red Sox made twice as many. They downed Buck Newson 3-2 in the opener with a run in the seventh and three innings of perfect relief pitching by Yank Terry and then they captured the nightcap with the greatest of ease 7-1.

This brought Boston's current surge to 20 victories in 24 games and put a premium on the three-game series between the Yanks and Red Sox at Fenway Park tomorrow and Saturday—with the possibility that New York may lose control of first place.

The victories weren't enough to satisfy some of the fans, however, and they booed Ted Williams for his apparent loafing in the second game with the result that Manager Joseph Cronin replaced his star with Pete Fox in the fifth inning.

The Cleveland Indians kept within sight of the struggle for the lead by beating the Chicago White Sox 7-2 on the seventh-inning hurrying of Lefty Al Smith. The Tribe scored seven runs in the first inning routing Oral Grove before he could get a batter out.

Browns Belt Tigers
The St. Louis Browns turned loose a 14-hit assault to score in all but one inning and belt the Detroit Tigers 12-0 on the five-hit hurrying of Elden Auker, who thus became the first American League pitcher to gain 10 victories this season. Home runs by George McQuinn and Mike Chartak dressed up St. Louis' attack.

Action in the National League was limited to two games with the St. Louis Cardinals shutting out the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 and the Chicago Cubs cuffing the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 in a night encounter.

The latter affair was perhaps the last start for both Claude Passeau and Johnny Vander Meer before the All-Star game in New York Monday. Passeau performed in his customary fashion, yielding five hits and scoring his 12th victory against five defeats. Vander Meer on the other hand lasted only three innings and left the game trailing 4-2. Elmer Riddle finished creditably and the Cubs were held to a total of five hits.

St. Louis' success came on the six-hit pitching of Lefty Ernie White, who had been troubled with a sore arm earlier this season.

More Tourneys Slated
New York, July 2—The United States Golf Association, which announced today that benefit tournaments held throughout the nation last Memorial Day week-end netted at least $25,571 from member clubs for the American Red Cross war fund, is planning a similar series of tourneys for the coming holiday week-end.

Bob Pastor Gives Up Tidy Sums by Sticking to Golf

Promoter Jim Johnston Speechless at Bob's Plan; He'll Fight During August

New York, July 2 (AP)—You'll never believe this, but Jimmy Johnston was just about speechless today.

As a matter of fact, the entire fight industry was struck more or less incoherent, and one bright citizen even looked at the calendar to make sure it wasn't April Fool's Day.

For, the guys in the business had just learned that Rapid Robert Pastor is turning his back on a little matter of a hundred and fifty thousand dollars, give or take a few thousand, that he could pick up in a few fights this summer.

"Just think," moaned Jimmy, as he pushed back the derby hat and placed his head gently in his hands, "Here I am with the one real 'live' heavyweight around, now that Louis and Conn are in the army. I'm getting offers for him every day—just look, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Toledo, Pittsburgh, Detroit. And what does he say? He doesn't want to fight until the middle of August because he wants some time to play golf."

"All that dough around, and I have to have a guy who would rather knock a ball around a pasture."

This was unheard of in the business of busting beaks. Even if you count it fast, $150,000 makes quite a bundle of folding money.

The offers Johnston has received so far make a pile big enough to fill his derby. He can get $25,000 for Rapid Robert to take on Harry Bobo in Pittsburgh or Cleveland or both. There's $20,000 waiting for a return go with Jimmy Bivins in Cleveland and $25,000 more if he wants to maul with Melio Bettina in Chicago, and $15,000 to fight Lou Nova in Los Angeles, and $10,000 for Lee Savold in Detroit or Toledo, and either $7,500 or $5,000 to appear against a couple of lesser known lights in Toledo.

As Jimmy showed you there, a telegraph messenger delivered wires which guaranteed Pastor $10,000 to fight Pat Valentino or Turkey Thompson in Los Angeles. "So I called Bob up," the big noise related, "and what do you think he told me? 'Pop, I feel swell. . . I just shot an 88. I'm gonna keep playing this game until the middle of August. Then maybe I'll be ready to fight.'"

"I wonder if that guy thinks they keep that kind of dough on ice just so it'll be fresh whenever he wants it. Golf—I'll take vanilla."

Fight Brews With Cancellation of Legion Baseball

George Buschbaum, State Vice-Chairman of Poughkeepsie, to Map Schedule

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Sponsors of the annual American Legion Junior Baseball program, not the hallplaying youngsters, are providing the action in New York this year.

The formal program was canceled last week by George B. McAvoy, state chairman, because of "lack of interest and difficulties in transportation."

But there is apparently no "lack of interest" in the part of George Buschbaum, state vice-chairman of the program, who declared last night in Poughkeepsie:

"I don't think that one man, namely George B. McAvoy, should have the power to call off the entire state program, especially after the executive committee of the state ruled for baseball at a meeting in Syracuse the first week in June."

From Syracuse, McAvoy countered "the answer is simple: It wasn't any one-man decision."

"On June 29 there were official entries from only six teams throughout the entire state on file in the state adjutant's office. That seems to confirm lack of interest. And the state commander and the adjutant both were consulted before decision to cancel the baseball program was reached."

Buschbaum's protest followed by 24 hours a sharp blast by McAvoy at James R. Brown, Poughkeepsie Ninth District chairman, who announced he was planning to organize playoffs for the district title despite notification the program had been canceled.

Best at 'Picking Off'
Chicago (AP)—Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Chicago Cubs, rates Schnozzle Ernie Lombardi of the Boston Braves as the best catcher he ever saw "picking a runner off first base." "I thought I was pretty good at that myself, but that was before I saw Lombardi," Wilson said. Wilson should know. "Big Lom" is one of the best catchers in baseball," Wilson rambled. "And he can murder you with that big bat, too. He can do everything except run like a deer."

Ted Williams Benched; Cronin Promises Action

Slugging Red Sox Ace Display of Laziness at Plate Irrks Fans Watching Games

Boston, July 2 (AP)—Unless penitence has replaced sulkiness, the many-mooded Ted Williams, the only member of the hustling Boston Red Sox who challenges the home fans' rights to jeer at will, may feel the disciplinary hand of Manager Joe Cronin today when he reports at Fenway Park.

For the third time since he joined the Red Sox in 1939, Williams, the American League's 406-batting champion, was pulled out of the lineup by Cronin yesterday when, irked by a spectator's rib, he sulked and loafed at the plate. Williams dressed and quit the park immediately and, after the game, Cronin, visibly annoyed by his star's display of ill-temper, appeared undecided about his disciplinary measures.

Depends on Williams
"I won't make any decision until game-time tomorrow," Cronin said. "Everything will depend on Williams' attitude."

The excitable Williams seemed in an unusually happy frame of mind while batting against Bobo Newsom during the first game of the Soxers' second straight doubleheader sweep over the Washington Senators. Early in the second game, however, he appeared to take his own time chasing a hit in left field and then answered back when a spectator in that end of the grandstand yelled at him, "Don't you ever try to get off a dime?"

Williams made no secret of his annoyance when he came to bat in the third inning and took two half-hearted swings before flying out to center field. That performance brought a scattering of boos from the 15,594 crowd. The jeering became general in the fifth when, with the Soxers leading only 1-0, Williams sauntered to the plate with Lou Finney on first base. After taking two strikes without to play, get out of the game." Thereupon Williams continued on to the clubhouse and Pete Fox took over his left field berth.

During Williams' first spring training season with the club, Cronin ordered him out of an exhibition game in Atlanta when he expressed his displeasure over his failure to make a long running catch of a foul by hurling the ball over the grandstand. Later in that same season, the manager ordered him off the field because he had failed to run out a grounder.

Williams began to answer back to hecklers here on June 14, when the Soxers won a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers. The fans booed him for loping after a two-bagger hit in his territory but later a crowd of 30,311 cheered him when he put the winning run on third base by doubling off the right field wall in the ninth inning of the second game.

Cronin Is Angry
The crowd jeered him roundly when he was batted home and the angry Cronin rushed from the dugout and yelled, "If you don't want

Everything happened at the municipal stadium last night—except a complete ball game. After Jupe Pluvius had jinxed the Kingston Recreations again at about 8 o'clock, Manager Joe Hoffman's club and the Mohawks Giants tried to get the game in. After four and a half innings of play, another downpour prevented the Recs from batting in the last of the fifth and the officials decided to call the whole thing off.

The Colored Giants had the Recs on the ropes by the score of 7 to 1 and the local players were just as well pleased it was ruled out of the record book.

What the fair crowd of spectators did see at the uptown park orchard last night was undoubtedly remain with them for a long time to come. Kingston used three catchers—Manager Hoffman finally seeing action.

Bernie Mahoney, former Lafayette College catcher, started behind the plate but his antics were just a little too much for Hoffman. He missed two pop flies, fanned once, and let four pitched balls sail through him. Whitey Kowalczyk came in and was forced to leave the fracas with a split finger. Hoffman finally took over. It was also the debut for Bill

Sunday night the Manhattan All Stars will be here with a lineup of former college and minor league players. Next Wednesday night the Black Yankees are scheduled for the uptown park and that's a signal for local weather prophets to get busy again. This will be one of the biggest attractions of the year, if the weather man is good to the Recreations.

Friday night, July 10, the nation's most powerful negro team, the outstanding Homestead Grays, will be here. This club will feature Josh Gibson, the Babe Ruth of negro ball, and Buck Leonard, crack third baseman. Gibson has hit many round-trippers in the

Henderson Strives For 86 Millions To Check Anarchy

O.P.A. Chief Says Unless Sum Is Given Idea Behind Rationing Would Fail

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson stocked his vest pocket with cigars today and prepared to head for Capitol Hill to ask the Senate for the extra $86,000,000 the House refused him—the difference, he said, between rationing and anarchy in distribution.

The session of the Senate appropriations subcommittee considering the supply bill which carries this fiscal year's funds for the Office of Price Administration was private but Henderson made his case public in advance with a statement that "price, rent and rationing controls are all placed in jeopardy" by the $75,000,000 budget which was all the House would give him.

Henderson sought $161,000,000 for operations through next June and said that this estimate "was built upon careful first-hand estimates of the requirements of the office." Unless the full amount is forthcoming, he said, the O.P.A. may have to cancel rent control in 292 of the 367 projected areas and curtail other functions.

The staff "is already badly overworked," he added, but even existing personnel would have to be reduced. There is an inadequate staff to administer the universal price ceiling, he continued, and none at all to administer the ceiling on consumer services. Moreover, the O.P.A. "believes that it faces at least 10 additional rationing programs during the coming 12 months."

"Unless additional staff is available," Henderson's statement declared, "there will be utter disorganization and anarchy in the distribution of scarce commodities as supplies run out."

Even if he succeeds in convincing the Senate committee, however, any increased appropriation probably would face opposition on the Senate floor, where members recently have voiced bitter criticism of the O.P.A.'s operations, particularly the gasoline rationing and price increase in the east. And if the Senate boosted the appropriation, there would be a struggle to induce the House to reverse its stand.

As he appeared for more funds, Henderson also spotlighted two other disputes with Congress—the price concessions to farmers and the matter of subsidies to absorb losses under price ceilings.

He announced that he was "being compelled to take measures that will raise retail prices of the 1942 pack of canned and dried fruits by as much as 15 per cent and possibly more."

This represented the first departure permitted from the universal price ceiling. In an accompanying statement to the housewives, Henderson explained that it was made necessary by the concessions to growers which the farm bloc wrote into the price control act over the administration's opposition and by the refusal of Congress to approve the subsidy plan by which the government could have absorbed business losses when necessary to make price controls stick.

The increased prices on canned and dried fruits will apply only to the 1942 pack, which has not yet reached the retail stores. The details remain to be worked out.

State Acts to Inform Men on War Policies

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—The state acted today to make certain that persons in or liable for military service know the terms of government laws before signing up for possibly less advantageous private policies.

A new regulation by the state insurance department, effective July 15, requests insurance companies to write no policy above $1,000 without a written statement that the prospective insured knows he is eligible for national life insurance without war restrictions.

The companies also are asked to insert in application forms a notice that war restrictions are included in their policies.

A department spokesman explained the objective is not to restrict purchase of private insurance, but "to make sure that those already in or about to enter military service know exactly what is available to them in the way of government insurance."

New York, July 2 (AP)—Motors, rails, steels and other favorites seemed to benefit by the cloudier war news in today's stock market.

Lack of any real liquidation was evident at the start and this encouraged specialized bidding, brokers said. Prices leaned selectively upward near the fourth hour, gains running to a point or more. Dealings picked up over Wednesday's sluggish proceedings.

Dimming the recent near-peace talk and bolstering war infants was the growing threat to Egypt, Axis claims of the fall of Sevastopol and the somewhat pessimistic Churchill speech.

Bonds were narrow. Cotton futures pushed higher.

Stocks attracting early support included General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Standard Oil (N. J.), Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and General Electric.

Allied Chemical dropped 2 points on an opening sale. Among laggards were American Can, du Pont and J. C. Penney.

Leahy Meets Reporter

"Right now we're spending it eating," indicated Private John L. Huth, of Stewart Field, Louisville, and Privates Alfred J. Obarka and Bernard Leahy, stationed at West Point, when questioned yesterday by a reporter of the New York Herald Tribune as to how they intended to spend the increase in pay that has been granted the soldiers.

Private Leahy, who is now at West Point, is a Kingston boy, and for a number of years was employed as a printer in the job department of The Freeman before he became a member of the U. S. Army.

The Wonderful Co. on Wall street has donated its window to the War Savings Bond and Stamp drive. The material for the display was sent through the Retail division of the United States Treasury in conjunction with the National Publishers' Association. The display has over 200 magazine covers from all the leading publications and the display is known as the United States magazine flag cover Victory display. The display in the local store will last until after July 4.

Community Night Bill Will Go on At Park in City

Despite the bad weather the Department of Recreation is going ahead with its plans for opening the summer season of Community Night programs with its annual inaugural City Wide Community Night at Hasbrouck Park this evening.

A program of varied activities has been set up for tonight's opener at Hasbrouck Park, with features on both the lower and upper levels of the playground. Children from many of the local play areas will be on hand to take part in the events, as well as directors of all of the city parks.

The usual large audience, which attends the opening program is expected to be on hand when the activities begin at 6:45 p. m. with a City League baseball contest scheduled to open the evening's activities when Farrell's play Hildebrants. Following the baseball game, the program site will be moved to the slopes of the park where a stage entertainment will be given on the park's new stage.

The closing feature will be five reels of talking pictures which have proved so popular a part of the local community nights.

The program is: Opening selection by the playground band. Song—A Soldier's Prayer. Vincent Ward.

The Clearwater Park Quartet. Tap Dance..... Cornell Park. Song—Remember Pearl Harbor. John Klownowski.

Band Selections. Magician..... Joseph O'Rourke. Electric Guitar..... Billy Crosby.

Song..... Smilin' Billy Crosby. Folk Dance..... Hutton Park. The movies scheduled for tonight are: "Mickey's Medicine Man," a Mickey McGuire comedy; "News Thrills of 1942," "Our Empire in the Air," "Pots and Pans," another comedy.

gap still separated the two Japanese columns driving toward each other along the important rail line, which leads into central China.

In the battle of Australia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported a series of Allied aerial blows which indicated a sharp upsurge in United Nations air strength.

Reaching far out over the neck of a Japanese "invasion base" islands north of Australia, Allied bombers attacked six Japanese strongholds and inflicted heavy damage.

A United Nations communique said the raiders struck at Kendari, Airdrome, in Dutch Celebes; Dili, Portuguese Timor; Lae and Salamaua, New Guinea; and Tulagi and Bougainville, in the Solomon Islands.

Trapanio Conviction Upheld Unanimously By Appellate Judges

shots which killed him were fired by the defendant. Following the homicide, the defendant fled, and was apprehended in Southern California in September 1941. He was sworn as a witness in his own behalf; his testimony is that Ballo became angry at him while they were fixing a plow. He says that Ballo threatened him for stating to some relative that he was intimate with a certain woman; that he was frightened and ran. Ballo followed, firing revolver shots, one a complete miss, the other two striking the defendant's hat. His account of what followed is quoted:

Q. Then what happened?
A. I turned around and I shot him.

Q. You turned around and shot him?
A. Yes.

Q. How many shots did you fire?
A. I shot two at the same time. Q. You had a double barrel shot gun?
A. Yes.

Q. You shot both shots at the same time?
A. Yes.

Q. Did you see him fall?
A. Yes.

There is no other evidence that Ballo was armed. The gunshot wounds were in his back. The defendant, knowing that he was to meet Ballo, took the shot gun, explaining that en route to the meeting he might have a chance to kill a rabbit or some other small game.

Missing Sailor Is in Australia

Newburgher Who Aided MacArthur Is Safe

Leroy Ghear Conn, 24, of Milton, member of the heroic torpedo squadron which spirited General Douglas MacArthur away from the Philippines when the fall of Bataan and Corregidor was imminent, and who was listed as missing last week by the Navy Department, has turned up in Australia, according to a cablegram received from him Tuesday afternoon by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conn, of Milton.

The message failed to reveal the details of his reappearance but he promised to "write more in a long letter later."

Conn, a second class machinist's mate who has served in the Navy more than six years, was a member of the torpedo squadron led by Lieut. J. D. Bulkeley. He has been listed as missing for several weeks.

In his cablegram, Conn said he was "well and safe." He noted that he has just received his first mail since the war broke out.

Lieutenant Bulkeley informed Mrs. Conn recently that her son was cited for gallantry in action "for his part in the Philippines exploit."
